my safety plan

Here are some actions that you can take to be safe.

Tips for Safer Dating

- Meet in public
- Go out with a group of friends
- Carry money for the phone or bus, or take your cell phone
- Tell someone where you will be
- Take your I.D. with you
- Trust your instincts

Safety at Home

- Keep important numbers safe and close by
- Tell your neighbours or family that you may need their help – have a code word ready
- Make sure your door locks work
- If he/she is angry and you are scared, go to a room that is safe that has a phone, two exits, and no weapons

Safety in the Neighbourhood

- Use a different route to get to school, the bus or to the store
- Hide some clothes and your house key at a friend's house
- Get to know your neighbours and store clerks
- Think of a place in your area that you can go for help – a health clinic, library, store, etc.

types of abuse

There are several ways a woman can be hurt by someone she cares about, for example:

Physical abuse is physical force against you such as slaps, kicks, pushes, punches, holding you down, blocking doorways, preventing you from using the phone or driving fast to scare you.

Emotional abuse is when your partner uses ways to hurt your feelings, such as calling you names, teasing you or telling you what to do.

Sexual abuse is when a partner forces you to do sexual things you do not want to do.

How do you know if your relationship is wrong and abusive?

Inside are some “early warning signs” that women who have been in abusive relationships said they experienced.

Someone Who is Abusive Might Also:

- Make you do sexual things that you do not want to do
- Have bad attitudes about women
- Say they will get sex somewhere else
- Use alcohol, drugs or bad words
- Use scary gestures like smacking their hand on furniture or clenching their fist
- Say they will hurt you
- Be violent towards your pets or other animals
- Break things you or someone else owns
- Scare you or others

it's not your fault!

you deserve better!

Are you in danger of being abused?

early warning signs that your relationship might turn abusive

A romantic relationship should be a positive experience. Everyone wants to be loved and cared for. Sometimes, though, relationships can be unhealthy when one of the people is hurtful. Read this brochure to see if you are in an unhealthy relationship.
